

Reading Outline: 356-358; 425-426

Thomas Hobbes, John Locke, Jean-Jacques Rousseau

These three men had a profound impact in shaping modern ideas about the relationship of people to their state, or government. This relationship is known as the social contract. Please read the pages 356-358 and 425-426. Then fill in the chart comparing and contrasting each man's views. Make sure that you have information in each of the following areas: Who Are We? (What are people like?) Where Are We? (what is society like?) What's The Problem? (What is hindering organized/civilized life?) What's The Solution? (How do we secure the organized/civilized life?)
